Court of Appeal Fourth District

In re DARROW DEWANN HAYGOOD

D049464

on

(San Diego County
Super. Ct. No. SCE229595)

Habeas Corpus.

THE COURT:

The petition for writ of habeas corpus has been read and considered by Justices Benke, Aaron, and Irion.

A jury convicted petitioner Darrow Dewann Haygood of two counts of residential robbery in concert. (Pen. Code,¹ §§ 211, 213, subd. (a)(1)(A).) The jury also found true a firearm use enhancement (§ 12022.53, subd. (b)) and a gang enhancement (§ 186.22, subd. (b)(1)). The trial court sentenced Haygood to 26 years in prison.

Haygood appealed the trial court's judgment.² Among the arguments raised in his appeal, Haygood claimed his trial counsel rendered ineffective assistance by failing to object to the lack of foundation for the gang expert's opinion and by failing to object to the admission of certain statements made by the investigating officer during a taped interview with Haygood. In reviewing this latter issue, we specifically noted that Haygood had been read his rights under Miranda v. Arizona (1966) 384 U.S. 436 before talking with the investigating officer. After finding only harmless instructional error, we affirmed the trial court's judgment. (People v. Haygood (Jun. 22, 2004, D043134) [nonpub. opn.])

² We take judicial notice of the record on appeal.

In this petition, Haygood claims that his trial counsel rendered ineffective assistance of counsel by failing to investigate and object to the admission of any portion of the taped interview because Haygood had not been read his Miranda rights prior to the interview. Haygood further claims that his appellate counsel rendered ineffective assistance by failing to assert this aspect of trial counsel's ineffectiveness on appeal.

We conclude that Haygood has failed to state a prima facie case for relief. (People v. Duvall (1995) 9 Cal.4th 464, 474-475.) As indicated above, this court specifically noted in its decision on appeal that Haygood had been read his Miranda rights prior to being interviewed by the investigating officer. This fact is substantiated by the trial testimony of the investigating officer, who was specifically asked whether he had advised Haygood of his Miranda rights and about the details of the advisement. Moreover, after the investigating officer's testimony, Haygood testified at length about the interview and never once indicated or even suggested he had not been properly advised of his Miranda rights beforehand. Although Haygood submitted a declaration with this petition stating he was never read his Miranda rights, a defendant's self-serving declaration is not sufficient to state a prima facie case for relief. (See, e.g., In re Alvernaz (1992) 2 Cal.4th 924, 938.)

The petition is denied.
